WHH NEIGHBORHOOD SEVENTH ANNUAL ARTWALK

SUNDAY NOVEMBER 9TH NOON — 6 PM

BY MEREDITH EMMETT

Mark your calendar for the seventh annual WHH neighborhood Artwalk. The Artwalk offers a chance to enjoy the talents and personal company of your creative neighbors displaying and selling jewelry, stained glass, weavings, pottery, paintings, photographs, and many other locally crafted arts, and to truly shop local. Watch the neighborhood listserv for more details. Maps will be made available in the neighborhood and also online.

If you are an artist who wants to participate in the Artwalk, please contact Galia Goodman at galiag@mindspring.com or 286-4463. All creative neighbors are welcome!

WHHNA ANNUAL MEETING

COME MEET YOUR NEIGHBORS AND SHARE YOUR IDEAS

TUESDAY OCTOBER 20TH AT 7:30

BY MEREDITH EMMETT

Each year, the Watts-Hospital Hillandale Neighborhood Association gathers for its Annual Meeting. This year's Annual Meeting is Tuesday, October 20th at 7:30 pm at the Summit Church at the corner of West Club Blvd. and Carolina Ave. The annual meeting offers residents the following opportunities:

- Join current board members and committee chairs for interactive roundtable discussions on such neighborhood topics as safety, traffic, trees, streetlights, and parks.
- Share your ideas and opinions about making Watts-Hospital Hillandale neighborhood an even better place to live and play.
- Find out how you can be involved in neighborhood festivities such as the Centennial Celebration, Night of Lights, and more.
- Share your ideas for any new events that you may like to see in the neighborhood.
- Elect the officers and directors of WHHNA Board of Directors.

FestOval - Saturday October 3rd Come Play in the Park!

BY MEREDITH EMMETT

Fall means FestOval and this year's event is Saturday, October 3rd in Oval Park. All afternoon and into the evening the park will be alive with games to play and neighbors to greet.

Games and activities for children of all ages begin at 2 pm. There will be lawn games and more. Cool edible treats will be available throughout the afternoon.

The potluck dinner begins at 5 PM, accompanied by music and the opportunity for dancing. Bring your favorite dish to share with neighbors, as well as a lawn chair or two. Durham Jazz, an 18-piece swing band, will generously provide music again this year. Enjoy the neighbors you know and meet new friends al fresco.

As dusk falls, we'll show the videos produced this summer by students at the Center for Documentary Studies (CDS) Video Institute. The twelve stories about people and places in the neighborhood are a wonderful and educational overview of what makes our neighborhood unique. Follow John Riley as he delivers the mail. Listen to what inspires our neighborhood artists. Learn more about the history of Watts Hospital and the operations of the Williams Water Treatment plant. Meet the personalities behind the Green Room, The Palace, and Watts Grocery (see Institute Summary on page 8). Copies of the DVD from the Video Institute and the CD from the Audio Institute will be available for purchase for only $10 each.

PARADE is the newsletter of the Watts Hospital-Hillandale Neighborhood Association. It is delivered quarterly to the 1,350 households in the neighborhood. The association is a private nonprofit established in 1984 to preserve and enhance the residential character of the area. Membership is open to every adult who owns property or resides in the neighborhood. Editor: Wendi Gale. Art Director: Candy Webster. Web Site Host: Joshua Allen — <http://www.whhna.org>
To subscribe to the neighborhood association listserv, please go to "<http://www.rtpnet.org/mailman/listinfo/whhna-list>."

Neighbors are invited to nominate themselves or others for the board at or before the meeting. If you submit your nominations to Meredith Emmett before October 1 via phone or email (641-1614 or meredith@thirdspacestudio.com), the Nominating Committee will have ample time to communicate with you and to answer questions you may have, and also to personally introduce you as a nominee at the Annual Meeting. However, nominations are also taken from the floor during the meeting. All members of WHHNA are welcome to serve on the board.

Please join your neighbors on October 20th for a fun and interactive Annual Meeting! The Board of Directors will provide delicious refreshments and multiple opportunities to win door prizes.

WHH Centennial Celebration Finale Social & Dance

Saturday November 21, 2009
NCSSM Gymnasium, 7:30-11:00 p.m.

by Sally Adkins

Please mark your calendars and encourage your neighbors to attend this grand culminating WHH centennial celebration. To view the WHH Video and Audio Documentaries produced by the Center for Documentary Studies at Duke University please come at 7:30 p.m. Music and dancing will follow a showing of the documentaries with featured vocalists and neighbors Ellen Ciompi, Nancy Middleton, Lindsey Bute, and the Durham Jazz Orchestra. More information will be provided in the coming months via the WHH listserv. We hope you can join us. Please mark your calendars now!

WHH Neighbors Weigh In On Durham CAN Priorities

WHHNA is a member of Durham CAN (Congregations, Associations and Neighborhoods), and as such, over one hundred neighbors recently gave input to help shape CAN's future action priorities for making Durham an even better place to call home.

WH CAN team members provided two opportunities for WHH resident input. First, neighbors were invited to a listening session to share and discuss what each deemed as the most pressing issues of concern facing Durham County today. Next, WH CAN members sporting poster-board "ballots" (of the top 10 issues raised from the listening session) joined in the July 4th festivities. Over 100 neighbors voted for their top concerns. The top vote-getting concerns are summarized below.

1. Improve education quality of lowest performing schools in Durham
2. Integrate residences, businesses, walkways and public transportation for better walk-ability and bike-ability in Durham (This was a WHH July 4th write-in!)
3. Preserve and improve water health (streams, lakes, aquifers)
4. Decrease racial/ethnic intolerance and prejudice
5. Create pathways to green jobs for low-income Durham residents

Durham CAN will use feedback from WHH and other CAN member organizations to guide the agenda for CAN going forward.

For more information about CAN, please contact neighbor Shanon Schuster, shanon@alumni.cmu.edu

Biggest Fourth Ever!

BY TOM MILLER

Attendance estimates for this year's Watts-Hospital Hillandale July 4 parade and celebration ran between 900 and one thousand people making it the neighborhood's biggest-ever. The fact that it was the 60th anniversary of the event and the neighborhood's centennial certainly contributed to the record-breaking turnout. Generous newspaper coverage and the anticipated dedication of the new WHH neighborhood sign and flagpole also encouraged people to attend.

Vega Metals of Durham fabricated the sign, located at the corner of Club Blvd. and Oakland Ave. out of steel from a design by neighbor Joe Liles. The neighborhood's tireless centennial chairman, Debbie Kelly, coordinated the erection of the sign and handled all of the necessary permitting. The result is a fitting, homegrown monument to 100 years of Watts-Hillandale living. The flagpole and the U.S. flag that flies from it are dedicated to Tom and Alice Walker, neighbors who founded the parade and its essential traditions in 1950. Although Tom Walker passed away some years ago, Alice and three generations of her family were on hand to receive the well-deserved honor. After the flag was raised by a Walker grandson, Tom Deckert, the O.K. Chorale struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." It was a very moving occasion.

Unfortunately, our good neighbor, Bill Holmes, was unable to supply us with his wonderful Ideal Sundry lemonade. Fortunately, Hagar Rand at the Coca Cola plant on Hillsborough Road stepped into the breach, supplying us with enough cokes and water to quench a thousand thirsts. The kids really enjoyed the little bottles and marveled at the crimped caps that had to be removed with a bottle opener. How times do change!

Amy Tornquist from her Broad Street restaurant, Watts Grocery, was on hand with hundreds of her signature cupcakes. Man, did they go fast! Amy never misses an opportunity to serve her neighbors. Thanks also go to Joe Van Gogh, who supplied lots of fresh coffee to the early morning volunteers.

The weather was perfect - not too hot and a gentle breeze was blowing. The city had made a special effort to spruce up the newly renovated northern half of Oval Park. At 8 on the morning of the fourth, an army of volunteers showed up to hang flags, set up tents, control traffic, and sell t-shirts. They brought ladders and trucks to make the work easy. Both the police and fire departments turned out to lead and protect the parade. Special thanks go to our neighbors Brad O'Brien and his crew from Summit Church. Brad took on the job of traffic control, but he brought so many volunteers we put them to work at every job. Dignitaries who attended the parade included state house representative and neighbor, Paul Luebke, and city council members, Mike Woodard, Diane Catotti, and Cora Cole-McFadden.

Real Estate - A Century Ago

BY TOM MILLER

Even with the recession still going strong, the best investment anywhere around turns out to be a house in Watts Hospital-Hillandale. What would those first adventurous lot purchasers think if they could see the value of their investments today?

The oldest houses in the neighborhood, along Ninth and a couple on Iredell, were actually built on lots that were an outgrowth of the Walltown development of the 1890s. Watts Hospital-Hillandale didn't get its proper start until 1913 when The West End Land Company bought up a big chunk of the Hester farm and laid out 105 lots along Club Boulevard. The lots were generous, 75' by nearly 400', and intended to attract Durham's growing professional class. They called their development "Club Acres." At the same time, the Durham Loan and Trust Company bought another section of the Hester property located just to the south. They divided it up into 198 more modest lots and called it "Englewood." The land was mostly farmland. Early photos show almost no trees anywhere. The only buildings represented on the old plats were the new Watts Hospital and the new Durham Country Club. Club Boulevard (a new name for what had been called both North Street and E Street) had recently been improved with kerbs and gutters, although the street itself was still unpaved. There were water, sewer, and gas lines in the street. Electric lines hung overhead and the developers installed concrete sidewalks. Another big amenity in this pre-automobile era was the electric streetcar line running right down the center of the street. Crossing streets named after states connected club Acres and Englewood Ave.. The exception was Park Way surrounding the unbuildable land along the little creek that flowed south into Ellerbe. Of course, this land eventually became Oval Park and Park Way became Oval Drive on one side and Oakland Avenue on the other.

The development was in the county then. Interestingly, the name "Club Boulevard," which began as a developer's unofficial marketing device, stuck instantly although it did not become official until 1925. Almost as quickly, the area nearest the hospital began to be called the "Watts Hospital district." And the area farther west, near the country club, was called "Hillandale" after the golf course John Sprunt Hill had built and loaned to the club. The Durham Morning Herald referred to the whole neighborhood as "out there."

In those days real estate wasn't sold the way it is today. There were no real estate agents in the sense we understand today and there was no multiple listing service. Most land was developed and sold by syndicates of Durham's business leaders - the Dukes and their partners. Although some of Durham's wealthier folks had homes built for them, most houses were built as speculative ventures or investments. All of this would soon change and the dramatic changes in real estate development that swept a growing Durham were reflected in Watts-Hillandale.

In 1913 there was no real estate section in the newspaper. Indeed, real estate ads were rare and when they did appear in the tiny "Want Ads" section, they were mixed with advertising for horses and mules, pianos, water melons, and "eggs for hatching." Advertising revenue for the paper came mostly from large ads for department stores like Ellis Stone's and Kronheimer's and for automobiles like Buicks and Overlands. To kick off sales in Club Acres, the West End Land Company brought in Penny Bros. auctioneers from Greensboro to conduct a big sale on November 24, 1913. Fifteen prime lots were to go on the block. West End bought a series of quarter-page ads in the Herald to attract buyers.

Says company president W. J. Griswold, "If you buy a lot at this sale, you'll never regret it."

And the lots sold. At this auction and others, the buyers were doctors and lawyers, like Merle Adkins and Sumpter Brawley, who wanted sites for their new homes. Other buyers were speculators who flipped the lots for a profit after fine new homes began to rise along Club and Englewood. Some of the speculators also built houses for resale.

Lot sales by auction proved to be slow way of moving property. Gradually, the developers began to advertise more and more in the newspaper.

In 1916, Alphonsus Cobb's Durham Realty and Insurance Co. ran a quarter page ad showing a drawing of a beautiful Colonial Revival home on a landscaped lot. "There Is Every Reason Why You Should Own a Home On CLUB BLOULEVARD - The beautiful residence section between the Watts Hospital and the Country Club.

Pure, Fresh Air... Good Car Service... Electric Lights...Gas...City Water... Sewerage...No City Taxes...Boulevard now being Macadamized...GIVE THE CHILDREN A CHANCE." The speculators also began to run ads and with the diffusion of ownership, real estate brokers made their appearance too. "ELLIOTT Has The Following Lots For Sale" began one October, 1914 Herald ad. "Three nice lots, near the car line just west of the Watts Hospital, size lots 50x 150. Prices $350 to $450 per lot." Proximity to the trolley was a big seller. Success on Club caused development to creep northward on Alabama. Here the speculators were W. L. Totten and his neighbor, J. T. Kerr. They lived side-by-side in the 2200 block of Club Boulevard. Sharing the same page of the Herald with an article announcing the marriage of film stars Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle and Doris Deane, Kerr and Totten advertised "Property is in great demand in this vicinity and is becoming scarce, we have only 16 of these beautiful Home Sites to offer you..."

During the "Roaring Twenties" real estate in Watts-Hillandale was a hot commodity. In 1921 alone, twenty-seven Club Boulevard properties changed hands. Prices went up and up. Real estate ads, once rare in the newspaper, now had their own section in the classifieds. Box ads were commonplace and real estate agents multiplied. Durham "Realtor" A. P. Carlton of Durham Insurance Service Co. advertised "3 vacant lots on Alabama Avenue East front $1,000.00 each." In 1921, Realtor was a term recently coined to denote membership in the N.C. Association of Realtors, a new organization of real estate brokers.

Homes in addition to lots were now being offered. In July 1923, City Real Estate Co. offered "Six rooms and a bath just off Club Boulevard. South Front (evidently, south and east were best). Nice level lot. House sub-floored. Has fireproof roof. Beautiful electric fixtures, fully equipped bath, hot and cold running water and sewer..." (You know what they meant.) Another ad at the same time proclaimed, "AN ATTRACTIVE NEW BUNGALOW with six rooms, breakfast room and bath...2000 block of Englewood for sale. Has Garage also to match house. Call G. C. Glymph." Grover Glymph and his family were among the first to see the benefit of an Englewood home. They resided at number 2040. On the same page, D. W. "A Square Deal to Everybody" Newsome offered "nice home sites" on Alabama, Carolina, Maryland, Woodrow, Wilson, and Virginia at prices ranging from $800 to $1,500.

Newsome also sold houses and knew an investment opportunity when he saw one. In 1926 he listed "A new home, just being completed, on Alabama Avenue. All city conveniences, street soon to be paved, eastern front (there it is again)... in a new and beautiful section that is rapidly growing. Hardwood floors throughout, built-in bookcases, baseboard attachments (who knows?), built-in bath (in 1926, the other kind were still common enough)... Just a tidy, cozy home. Price $6,500. ...a good investment. Will sell for $7,500 as soon as street is laid."

As the competition grew stiffer, the ads became more descriptive. Here's an ad from the September 3, 1926 Herald: "FOR SALE A splendid home on Club boulevard. Has 9 large rooms with good, large basement. Modern steam heat. Large living room, dining room, kitchen and breakfast room, with back porch, on first floor. Has four good bedrooms and bath on second floor. Also has splendid garage. Quite a few fruit trees, large strawberry patch. A real HOME for somebody. CARVER REAL ESTATE COMPANY."

SUMMARY OF SUMMER 2009 VIDEO & AUDIO INSTITUTES IN WHHN

BY DEBBIE KELLY

Thanks to the students participating in the 2009 Video and Audio Institutes at the Center for Documentary Studies (CDS) at Duke University in June and July, we have a treasure trove of personal thoughts and recollections about Watts Hospital-Hillandale. Neighbors who attended the students' final project presentations were treated to some very special stories about community, friendship, music, ecology, commitment, reclamation, alligators, courage, fun, dogs, and much more. If you'd like to attend a performance of the short video and audio documentaries, the WHH Neighborhood Association plans to share them publicly during at least two neighborhood events in 2009 (FestOval and the Centennial Social & Dance). Copies of the documentaries will also be for sale throughout the next year or so through the WHH Neighborhood Association.

Video Documentaries

Amy's Community – Watts Grocery was going to be a taco stand

Birth by Charity – a controversial account of Watts Hospital history

Ellen Ciompi – hear one of the sweetest songs ever sung about WHH and Durham

Finding a Place – play billiards and leave your troubles at the door

Food for the Soul – meet the creepy critters who live in our communal backyard

Food People Music – sharing the joy and smiles of Africa on Broad Street

Galia Goodman – the intricacies of making meaningful ketubot

George Danser – a tutorial in responsible living

Life Blood – it's not just a pastoral reservoir we see at the end of West Club everyday

Links of Love – you will never think of golf in the same way again

Love on Delivery – why it's not a good idea to get on the wrong side of WHH

Oval Park – the things kids do!

Audio Documentaries

An Abundant Life – Dr. William Wilson's discovery of joy

At Home on the 4th of July – Alice Walker shares her giggle and memories

Durham's Come A Long Way, Baby – Rep. Paul Leubke and his contributions to NC

Going Out Feet First – Tom Miller visits with some of his dearest neighbors

A Durham Boy Goes to War – Grover Glymph is our hero

Icky Poo – Dr. Charles "Chuck" Eilber and kids of all ages

Historian and Activist – John Schelp brings peace and calm to many situations

Lessons From a Neighborhood Activist – Meredith Emmett has a very large family

A Long Tale – John Carr has a secret and you might not want to hear it

The Power of Slow Living – Marian Place knows the power of a porch

The President and First Lady – Meredith Emmett and Galia Goodman smooth the edges

Scrapbooks of the Heart – Patricia "Pat" Coman brings out the best in people

Woman with a Knife – St. Clair Williams has always loved tools and making things

Wabi-Sabi – Taki Scoville is very glad to teach kids to cook rice and appreciate food

The WHH board of directors wishes to give special thanks to Debbie Kelly for her tireless work in the coordination of this collaborative project between WHHNA, CDS, and NCSSM. Thank you, Debbie. You are the best!

FOCUS—continued

We are looking for volunteers to help organize and facilitate this wonderful community festival. The invaluable expertise of those who have volunteered in the past is especially desired, but we have room and opportunities for people of all ages and skills. We hope to keep volunteer shifts fairly brief so one also has plenty of time to mingle and enjoy the event as well as to work. This festival is a true neighborhood event, and we are the ones who make it happen. Set up will begin the morning of October 3rd at 9 AM. If you are able to offer help in any way please contact: Meredith Emmett at 641-1614 or meredith@thirdspacestudio.com.

Heart of the Neighborhood

Mr. Carver also lived in a splendid home in the neighborhood. Along with heat and bathrooms, chickens were a selling point. In April, 1926, C.W. Teague offered "FOR SALE 4-ROOM HOUSE. Nice large lot on Maryland Avenue. Fine place for a garden, chickens and a real home."

Perhaps the most persuasive of all Durham's real estate men of the 1920s was C. E. Phillips. In 1924, he put this ad in the Durham Morning Herald: "LOOKING FOR A HOME? ON VIRGINIA AVENUE BETWEEN Club Blvd. and Englewood Avenue, I have, without a doubt the very best HOME opportunity that can be found in this good section.... It is easily worth $7,000 of any man's money, and that is what we've been asking; but it MUST BE SOLD, and we are willing to accept only $6,000." If this hasn't convinced you, "Read on! There are six nice rooms with bath, cedar closets, pantry, HEAT, gas heater for hot water, shades and screens, garage, cement driveway...." But wait! There's more: "This home is just a few years old and is in the best of condition. It faces EAST.... The lot is 60 x 252 feet allowing room for flowers, chickens, and a garden and ample play space for children. AND not far distant is one of the best SCHOOLS in the city. P.S. The home I advertised last week could have been sold to three different people, but only one got it. Better call me now." Who could resist? But in just a few years the Great Depression would bring it all to a crashing halt.

Billboard Industry Still Lobbying for Digital Displays and to Move More Signs to I-85 and 15-501

BY TOM MILLER

K & L Gates, the law firm that is currently suing the county to reduce the protected watershed around Jordan Lake, is continuing its lobbying effort on behalf of Fairway, the billboard company that owns half the billboards remaining in Durham. The Watts-Hillandale Neighborhood Association has joined with other target neighborhoods to oppose Fairway's plans for increased numbers of billboards, including digital. Please help out. Write a letter to the editor and tell them you oppose digital billboards hanging over houses along I-85, 15-501, and other streets. Send an e-mail message to the mayor and members of the city council. The email addresses are: Bill.Bell@durhamnc.gov and Council@DurhamNC.Gov

Association Membership Approaching All-time High

With nearly 690 members joining and renewing this year, 2008-9 is fast approaching the neighborhood association's record of 740 members. The Watts-Hillandale neighborhood Association has always been one of Durham's strongest voluntary neighborhood organizations, but these numbers put the neighborhood in a league by itself. Bravo to all the volunteers and neighbors who every day do something, however large or small, to make this neighborhood a great place to live.

News from Watts-Busters

BY MIG LITTLE-HAYES

WHHNA energy committee, Watts-Busters, encourages every WHHN resident to participate in a fantastic collaborative learning opportunity being offered by Clean Energy Durham (CED). CED is offering a free in-home, three-hour hands-on workshop on do-it-yourself home energy-saving techniques right in your very own home or the home of one of your neighbors! CED staff and "Super Trainers" will train homeowners and staff for in exchange for the following four pledges:

1. Agree to pay for the identified energy-saving supplies needed in your particular home such as caulk, weather stripping, etc., rarely to exceed $100.
2. Become a resource for WHH neighbors, willing to teach others what you learn through CED.
3. Bring at least 3 other neighbors to the workshop offered in your home to learn alongside you.
4. Provide CED access to energy-use information for the purposes of collecting data and tracking energy-saving results over time.

CED staff/trainer will do a preliminary walk-through of your home to identify and assess easy but meaningful energy-saving projects for use during the workshop, and to make a shopping list and accompany the homeowner for purchase of the necessary supplies, prior to the workshop. If you are interested in being one of WHH neighborhood's lucky energy-saving homeowners, or if you have questions about the program or ideas for future Watts-Busters activities send an email to mhayes7@nc.rr.com
